Best Bars to Watch the Oilers in Edmonton

Edmonton lives and breathes hockey, and when the Oilers hit the ice, there's no better place to be than among roaring fans in one of the city's best sports bars. Here's where Oil Country comes alive:

1. The Canadian Icehouse

Located just steps from Rogers Place in the ICE District, this modern bar is purpose-built for hockey nights. Massive HD screens, curated drink menus, and a rooftop patio with fire pits create a playoff-ready atmosphere year-round.

2. The Pint Public House

Known for its signature wings and loud, loyal crowds, The Pint is a staple for Oilers fans. Its central location makes it a prime spot for pre-game hype and post-win celebrations.

3. 1ST RND

A downtown favorite with multiple locations, 1ST RND blends sports-bar vibes with a gourmet pub menu. You'll find local beers, multiple screens, and Oilers specials on game night.

4. Hudsons Canada's Pub

With strong roots in Alberta, Hudsons delivers a true hometown feel. Expect jersey-clad servers, Oilers trivia, and loud chants echoing through the bar.

5. Campio Brewing Co.

If you're after great beer and hockey energy, Campio is the place. With local brews, Oilers décor, and a cozy industrial vibe, it's a top-tier hangout for any serious fan.

Top 5 NFL Bars in Toronto with Sunday Ticket

Toronto may be a hockey city, but every Sunday, NFL fans gather across the city to support their teams with wings, beer, and wall-to-wall screens. Here are five bars where Sunday Ticket rules the big screen:

1. Real Sports Bar & Grill

This massive downtown bar near Scotiabank Arena is built for game day. With dozens of TVs—including a 39-foot main screen—it's the best spot for watching multiple NFL games at once.

2. The Dock Ellis

A chill, neighborhood-style sports bar in the west end, it's perfect for fantasy football fans looking to follow multiple matchups with local craft beers in hand.

3. The Loose Moose

Steps from Union Station, The Loose Moose features dozens of taps and an NFL-loving crowd. Sunday afternoons here are full of jerseys, cheers, and game-day food specials.

4. The Ballroom

This downtown sports bar and bowling alley shows every game on its upper-level screens. It's a great pick for big groups and social fans who want more than just a bar stool.

5. RS Sports Bar

If you're looking for a place that shows out-of-market games thanks to full Sunday Ticket coverage, RS is known among diehard fans for catering to fantasy leagues and fan clubs.

Where to Catch Premier League Matches in Vancouver

Vancouver has a growing community of football (soccer) fans, and Premier League matchdays have never been better. Here are the top venues for early-morning kickoffs and high-stakes matchups:

1. Red Card Sports Bar & Eatery

This downtown favorite is styled like a European pub with North American flair. Great breakfast offerings during early kickoffs and a loyal fan base for EPL, Serie A, and more.

2. Malone's Taphouse

Boasting one of the best beer lists in the city, Malone's is a popular spot to watch Premier League games—especially for those who want a proper pint with their match.

3. Shark Club

With its sleek interior and giant screens, Shark Club delivers a more modern experience. You'll find fans of Manchester United, Arsenal, Chelsea, and more all gathered here on weekend mornings.

4. Bells and Whistles

A trendy option in East Van, this bar blends a cool vibe with reliable sports coverage. Premier League matches are shown alongside NFL, NHL, and more.

5. The Manchester Public Eatery

Tucked in the heart of Kitsilano, this classic British pub is an obvious choice. It's a go-to for English expats and diehard football fans looking to cheer on their club with authentic energy.

Montreal's Go-To Spots for UFC Fight Night

Montreal has a rich history in MMA and is home to some of the most loyal UFC fans in the country. Whether it's a pay-per-view showdown or a Fight Night card, these bars bring the action to life:

1. Peel Pub

A downtown legend, Peel Pub is always packed on fight night. With multiple floors, affordable food, and no cover charge, it's a classic choice for watching UFC.

2. Resto Bar Champs

Equipped with wall-to-wall TVs and a loyal combat sports crowd, Champs is all about energy. Come early, claim your seat, and enjoy the intensity of UFC with diehards.

3. Ziggy's Pub

For a more low-key vibe, Ziggy's offers a cozy setting where you can still catch all the action. The staff are fans themselves, which means great service and a lively atmosphere.

4. Bar St-Laurent Frappé

Known for its dive-bar charm and solid beer deals, Frappé is a favorite for fans who want a simple, no-frills fight night spot.

5. Burgundy Lion

This Little Burgundy pub offers a mix of elegance and sports passion. It's one of the few upscale venues that reliably show UFC events—with plenty of whisky to go around.

5 Things Canadian NFL Fans Should Know Heading into the 2025 Season”

The NFL is back—and Canadian fans are ready. Whether you're tailgating north of the border or settling in at your favourite sports bar, here's what to know heading into the 2025 season.

1. New Faces in New Places

This offseason saw major shakeups:

- A blockbuster trade sent a veteran QB from the NFC to the AFC, shaking up playoff predictions.
- Rookies like Caleb Williams (Chicago) and Marvin Harrison Jr. (Arizona) are poised to make an immediate impact.

If you're in a fantasy league, these new pairings will define early waiver priorities.

2. Canada-Friendly Viewing Times

This year's schedule includes more primetime matchups at 4:25 p.m. ET, making Sunday afternoon viewing perfect for Ontario and Quebec fans. Many bars across Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal will show multiple late games.

3. Bills Mafia Still Rules the North

With the Buffalo Bills still a powerhouse and just across the Ontario border, expect heavy support at bars across Toronto, Hamilton, and London. Many venues cater directly to Bills fans, complete with wings and table slams.

4. NFL Sunday Ticket Canada Now on EverPass

DAZN no longer has exclusive Sunday Ticket rights. Look for sports bars with EverPass access, allowing full out-of-market game viewing.

5. Where to Watch: Canada's Top NFL Bars

- Toronto: Real Sports, The Loose Moose, The Dock Ellis
- Vancouver: Shark Club, Malone's, Red Card
- Calgary & Edmonton: Canadian Brewhouse, The Pint

- Montreal: Peel Pub, Champs

Fantasy Football Fever: 2025 Sleepers & Bar Draft Night Tips”

Fantasy football is a religion in many parts of Canada, and as draft season heats up, savvy managers are looking for sleepers and strategy spots. Here's how to crush your league this year.

Sleeper Picks to Watch

These aren't household names—yet.

- Tyjae Spears (RB – TEN): He flashed big-play ability in 2024 and could take over the backfield full-time.
- Romeo Doubs (WR – GB): Christian Watson gets the hype, but Doubs has built chemistry with Love and gets red zone looks.
- Trey McBride (TE – ARI): With Kyler back at 100%, McBride could break into the top 5 TE tier.
- J.J. McCarthy (QB – MIN): If he wins the job, he has top-10 upside in 2QB leagues with Jefferson and Addison downfield.

Where to Host Your Fantasy Draft

Looking to level up this year's draft? Here are top Canadian bars that welcome fantasy football parties:

Toronto

- The Ballroom – Private rooms, projectors, and food packages.
- The Pint – Group booths, wing specials, and plug-ins for laptops.

Calgary

- Hudsons Canada's Pub – Draft beer, draft boards, and football-friendly space.

Vancouver

- Malone's Taphouse – Quiet booths upstairs perfect for focused GMs.

Montreal

- Burgundy Lion – Combines pub tradition with strong Wi-Fi and whisky.

Draft Night Checklist

- Confirm your league rules (Superflex? Half-PPR?)
- Book your bar in advance (especially Thursday nights)
- Bring a printed cheat sheet (Wi-Fi can betray you)
- Have a “stay-sober GM” to track picks
